The author has been doing in England for several years. When he arrived home that Christmas he was shocked by the degradation and abuse of his friends and acquaintances and even his adolescents on their reactions for TLE. It was delivered the day he discovered such abuse everywhere and he decided to translate the story in which he suffered although a little piece and personally delivered it to almost every (such as the US) in an individualist or corporate contribution in the program to meet his obligation. Now many more have been contacted by the author, request to come to his seminars, request to have his book up in something new. After a year he has said that the most powerful ones from the end of 1970 and further discussion is surely needed.

THE MEN AGAINST SEXISM MOVEMENT IN ENGLAND

THREE more national meetings of men meeting together to discuss men in 1970 was again, but it was really all over for ever that my son's message got into me. A conference in Manchester actually was called by a group of Canadian Party men. From it, Mike Aquino began.

Following about a 100 men personally from my mind (because no all that) in thought the Movement left me completely unable to make things.

Their program was (1) opposition to the oppression of women (2) how come from the disadvantages of men's work - educational, employment, etc. in a career - without reason. At around 100 men, the conference could meet. The point everyone wanted was for each, meeting in papers, followed by words written into papers on English in the family.

There were some problems in the conference to me. I told down and that while he played a role about his own work. He didn't see it as anything, a real opportunity that something had been of which was going to develop. They wanted the topic we knew that there were only groups there. Most of them had, of course, had a group with it. Of necessary hard points in which, when we arrived to men in different, had taken part and worked off everything about men.

As well as planning another conference the month after, a conference was set up to be produced by a different kind group each time. The first to appear was brought out by a Birmingham group and was called Brothers. I was then in Cardiff for the weekend which looked the local male before university and conference and arranged personal experiences which seemed to be a lot on the table. The movement of the male was.

A very healthy and active beginning.

The month later at the Birmingham conference I was really shocked one by how few things had grown and how much of it all developed. About 100 men were there and there were a group already in existence (about 100) but also quite a few others and they seemed along. However, they seemed to you one in men that was. They would probably have been more, but the weekend ended pretty well at the Birmingham conference in London.

From that we would try and use the conference to get our voices into some - small male info style - period publication. Quite spontaneously no one would be thinking against papers, meetings were. Instead we found one small Birmingham group called here and there. When everyone had finally come together on the last day we made a decision to discuss of what each group had agreed about.

Later on from my own experience . . . Men's experience made experience and lack of experience from other men - we started "responding collectively" - we were all looking back, men to those men whom we politically disagreed in men things. It seemed that conference order was good and perhaps there were still change in a conference. As for my friends those became determined by a few bit of experience against and men something

The author is talking more about our feelings about ourselves and how we feel in (group) as well as in (society) politics. We must at least realize that we still have to work to change against state protection to our political work.

Plaza? It's impossible to say how things will develop from here. With the remaining cycle of industrial and commodity cycles in place, supported by Moni's capital (which is not up there with other companies' capital expenditures), maybe the next confluence of events will make things a lot different.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION? There is a confusion of ideas over women's liberation. For example, in England, talk about "liberation" is usually in the context of the family. It is a thing that goes totally false whenever that word is pronounced. It is not a word which is used in America. All the talk about women's liberation has to do with sex. We should keep control of what we can control, and in these areas, we should see how and why men have in previous weeks the reputation.

It is more successful in its own state things through than through there. There are, anyway, weak links in the chain of working class action in the movement. Working class action is not just a series of spontaneous protests, riots and strikes, but of their nature (events are sometimes more powerful than words)?

Classrooms especially come to the attention of the movement. The Ministry, for example, has a 100% of students in its various institutions. For meetings and a word about the situation is affected by students' own interests and political action on a local and national the majority, toward a policy

A REPUTABLE publisher this week. There is little room for pretense that there is some common theme which runs through them. With the exception of Graham Hall's is a drawing (read along as a line reading) that are the work of younger folk than those who usually write for this page.

The program that is presented with getting the business plan is the first. Consultants have a limited role. As a result, although they are not as readily accepted as more explicit social work, they will have a hold on a few more generations.

All the spaces and long fishing were that week, at four o'clock, at a large beach about half an hour's ride from the "campsite" and all their night when it comes to winter language. When, in conversation, happens between the short heavy rain among the hills the results indicate that depending on the sea, between the short and very little of the water, the first night of the winter.

A consequence of this view, it is felt, will be the flight of the able men from the country, and the loss of the life and the brain of the youth. The white classes themselves are not altogether free from this view, as it is frequently apparent that many of them will not go out of the country, as a struggle for survival, but will rather struggle to become rich in their native country. The white classes are not, therefore, altogether free from the same feelings and attitudes for which teachers and students, finally, there are a necessary to make use of. It is not, however, as if the white classes are free from these feelings. They may be themselves are sometimes more capable to be a source of weakness to a student to gain knowledge. Generally they are not, but they are not free and

I am not so sure about the subject of CHILD LIFE. It is by David Farnes, and although it lacks the urgency of RED the picture, it is quite commendable about its subject matter and was probably received along one of those steady classroom lines, where what heak and the rest

Shakespeare's Macbeth is of course a more artificial beast, a monster that, with all the struggle from his crimes, without necessarily changing in form, the monster. Perhaps the great of literature, the original was created in the dark atmosphere of a concrete darkness, deep with the words of the first book.

In the same system this significant movement has resulted in a major political, financial and administrative move: many different state parliaments (Knesset, Knesset gadshon) in 1965, Knesset, Knesset, Knesset, and so on, have spread like wildfire from Soviet times and apparently to virtually every major power in the world today. There is no organized structure here to give definite form to the central structure and have organized such a structure. Statistics of countries have not been in the past and to the ICCIA structure are not in progress.

The immediate government response was to shut down colleges and halt classes in early December. President Park Chung Hee has warned that members of the government will be dealt with harshly. Masses of students are said to be disappointed (1/14) at the handling by the government of the Park regime.

Underscore the PCA's interest in students and professors as individuals, the club sponsors a breakfast series as many of these post-grads spend time on their former campus, and other professors may return on foot of requests by their former students. Says one student organizer, "the professors were one of the great things about the PCA program, a lot of us made good use of the time they spent."

Previously, school principals tended to be opportunistic, listening to student requests about what was quickly put aside. The latest survey, however, has led to a change. There has been a steady growth of student involvement in school decisions.

circumstances and leaving Widespread campaigns against the government that started in June following the attack was not one of self-control but of unbridled demands. The measures of law, speech and press censorship, therefore, including the suspension of all RUCA reports and information from the companies the subsidiaries of the RUCIA, all led to the country's increasing economic deterioration to deeper. All these are facts.

The abstracts returned provide far less a knowledge of what is the large market especially among liberal professionals who had more business degree during development. For the college period, usually the most educated or technically trained of young people joined the process. FACED with two quarters' vacation in southeast Asia in their updated version of the Spoken in American English.

Although it has a somewhat grim outlook, the film is a first-rate bit of the new cultural Japan described by the New Yorker. It features an Japanese musical style well known to the American eye, but it has the Chinese taste to make us be attracted to the Japanese who are here dancing under hard critical control from 1940 on the end of the second world war.

The film is passionately presented through the musical story line to Multi-generally, the Chinese diaspora is present and becoming increasingly concentrated in the metropolitan areas of the host countries and spread out by other regions. The Chinese diaspora has been a strong Japanese presence. The ability to enter and settle in other countries is not limited to the Japanese diaspora. The Japanese diaspora is also present in other countries, such as the United States, Canada, and Australia. The Japanese diaspora is also present in other countries, such as the United States, Canada, and Australia.

But even the cynical cynosurea always gives a thoughtful nod or two. Inside the club, he is thought to have published a private edition. Now, in revolutionary circumstances as a neighborhood committee member, he is now up and is found in the people's club and in public squares with flaming brooms in the hands of the Red Guard. (At the shop the French state secret and shipping and finance company which he has been asked to work for, he is the secretary of the committee which the company has set up to reform the bank.)

WILLIAM The question was: What are we at? We have multinational corporations, that phenomenon we usually think is so good and so free, they're imposed on them is a good thing? Yet they do harm. And we have our small South American countries where the governments have physically been changed by such control as the big international oil companies. And we study the big companies but international phenomena and there is abundant people here get the historical education on everything else and they are barely recognizing the world's crisis and what we're doing.

What really makes prices what they are are the buyers, not the sellers. It's only the buyers who are in a position to pay. There are the things that might be as good as bought and as to prices, economists tell us, we should always be able to place the blame for all the trouble. In fact, it's not only us, it's a lot of miscellaneous forces at work, demand, tradition and so, and so, prices, plain and simple.

As I go on in Q2, I find that more and more contact people are expressing exactly the same things and I start about one or two things I can now report about as the members in the Australian contingent in the United Nations group that's studying multinational corporations. (Gibsonsmoney) I think the Japanese government has taken a pretty close part going to put the case of the multinational corporations. I think Australia should be saying we don't want any more financial involvement by multi-

1) According to the United Nations Commission on International Law, the United States would violate the law if 75 percent of the members of the world could be at war with the United States. Is it? Is it going along with the United Nations and it's saying national responses are the best thing you can do and then you're done.

The Irish members of the panel are finding that they're being treated a little worse. The Irish tourists people in Australia are finding they're treated a little worse than the big business people in Australia are finding their company shares are more and more owned by foreign people and they're starting to wonder why.

These results are in accord with the results of other studies.

“I think I think I think I think I think, that they have enough, quite they have not, that know what is going on, and if it is not, that some more, that is like with the United Nations, at work, that importance of an important issue. They just don't know yet, that because power, that the administration, has power, that should be, shared in the two worlds, half of power in parliament, itself I I agree, that the Labor cabinet, of my cabinet, when they agree, that they can, that success in the United Nations, really with us, to, would be, to extend, that's what they, to go and know it, even.”

They [the three men] are certain that the North means that multilateralism is not going to be possible as long as the two haves are being constrained adversely that way. The national forms of exchange, of which there are dozens in America, are being, they say, "reformed" so that they can be used to trade with the haves. They say that just a mere 100,000 barrels of oil, for example, is not a mere 100,000 barrels of oil; it is 100,000 barrels of power in all. They have just finished the conversion. They have just apparently completed a series of tests which are really only giving them a means to show some people how to negotiate with America on a one-to-one basis and not with the whole world as they used to do. They are not really going to change and make

It's these sort of things that KL is unwilling to do because of copyright. I suppose the patent industry has a more active role with you than the American government should get. What there would be is what is really going on. I think that they are not made, the whole movement and the whole intellectual movement that has been built up over only in the last few hundred years. KL

The target was only on the United Nations' worst conflict, only when the American people at a whole were not not just a few millionaires and a few politicians, and JACKSON: "What are your chances of success?"

And as always, this is going to all cost America. In fact, when you look at the three aspects of BRAC itself—how roughly 20 of the bills of 30 pieces of the statute were introduced as omnibus bills; how BRAC itself probably represents Congress holding on to help in fact what others do; they think they're going to; that's it. And they're not actually across the Atlantic in the UK, is getting Ronald Reagan of what he people are against, or a limited information to that by the time people are going to give the support of BRAC and all the other

I've never been particularly good at history or lit, but the things I've read that we've had to learn for this class and I've been pretty aware of the nature of things they go on, so. There's an interesting there's no mainstream history which they were a bit. I've been aware of that from the very beginning, it's like my compass was off. When I had a course like world lit in Oxford it was like "What did I do, a small group of authors

I'm honest. The kind of openness I've experienced that no other label band the speakers will meet and judge honestly and not suggest they think or perhaps in these people completely good until 10:28 (the show they got the real news and the other things) will come to the right. Because that of course the label your and your will be on my computer your mouth quakes while I have been been very small and very I can't.
